

Bridger Ridge Slides

Date

Sun, 01/29/2023 - 11:20

Activity

Skiing

Noticed multiple crowns while driving up to bridger bowl this morning. Most evident was wide crown line on saddle peak below the corniced ridge stretching from the summit towards football field. Another was an obvious crown on what I believe is Argentina Bowl south of Saddle peak. From a distance, this all looked like new snow crowns and didn't seem like anything stepped down to our buried weak layers. East wind had an interesting effect on the ridgeline above bridger bowl.

Region

Bridger Range

Observer Name

Tommy S